Records Show First Meetings of County Commissioners

HISTORY: A dusty book (you should see the dirt I washed off my hands) lies high on a shelf in the county clerk's office of the court house. It is the record of the first boards of county commissioners in Saline county, and it tells of the first meeting of such a board in this county 80 years ago.

Recorded are the minutes of that meeting in February, 1874, following their being named the previous month. The commissioners were William H. Pankey, chairman, William M. Simmons and Nelson Webber.

That first meeting was short, but on March 2 another meeting was held and it lasted about eight days, adjourning, of course, from one evening until the next morning.

Back at that time there were numerous petitions being offered the board to change stretches of roads, and the petitions were being allowed by the board. They are too numerous to mention, but one was to change the Harrisburg-Equity road on the land of R. A. Berry, and change the Galatia-Harrisburg road on the land of James Stricklin and on the land of Henry Weber.

The board that March also granted permission for the opening of a new cartway from the Raleigh-Galatia road running southward and meandering.

I noticed where an appropriation of $120 was allowed for building two bridges on a new road from Harrisburg to the Williamson county line over Bankston Fork and Sinking creek. Thirty dollars was voted for a bridge across Sloan's creek near the James Lewis place on the state road between Raleigh and Galatia (as yet unopened).

Appointed supervisors of highways for various road districts of the county by the board on March 2 were John O. Caples, Charles P. Burnett, Hezekiah Bramlet, James H. Duncan, William O. Clark, N. G. Slow, James Guard and Allen B. Coffey.

The minutes of the first meetings were very clear about who was receiving funds as paupers and one item told of paying out $15.78 for articles and coffin furnished for the burial of the child of a poor person.

Something else I noticed was that there were numerous claims of persons for guarding the jail. They were paid $1 per night.

One item in the March minutes revealed that the Belleville and Eldorado Railroad Co., which had an agreement made in January, 1870, with the county to construct the part that ran through Saline county, petitioned for extra time and the board granted the line until March 9, 1877, to complete the job.

The board paid William R. Kimbrell $1 for a barrel of lime and paid James Harrison $2 for white-washing the court house.

Grand jurors were selected for the May term of circuit court and here is the list: Plainview—L. B. Eaton and Alexander Burns; Eldorado—J. W. Cox and David Westbrook; Raleigh—B. S. Fox and Charles P. Burnett; Galatia—James McIlwain and Henry Jones; Brushy—Joel Hawkins and W. C. Travist; Douglas—James R. Spinks and W. A. Harris; Stonefort—Calvin S. Blackman and William Dillard; Independence—Stephen F. Mitchell and F. E. Butler; Somerset—Allen B. Coffey and Richard Church; Cottage Grove—Israel D. Sisk and David A. Dollins; Harrisburg—Richard Oliver, Ed Shepherd and Thos. A. Jones.

In the April minutes I noted a contract between the county and James W. Horning, by which the pauper farm belonging to the county was leased to Horning for a year. The contract gave him use of the farm and buildings and use of sufficient timber for his own use, with Horning to pay $100, $25 to be paid on June 1, $25 Sept. 1 and $50 Dec. 1, with Horning to use all necessary care to preserve buildings, fruit trees, fences, etc., thereon.

Also yesterday Chester Golliver was arraigned before Judge Reynolds and entered pleas of guilty to two counts of larceny but sentence was withheld because of the request of his attorney, Joe M. Butler, for probation. Golliver is charged with stealing corn from C. E. Garner while working for him north of Eldorado, trucking it away and selling it.

Submit After Mass Assault By Officers

23 Rioters Are Injured; Damage
May Total $10 Million

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Rioting convicts who burned eight buildings in a night-long orgy surrendered today as scores of troopers swarmed into two beleaguered cell blocks at the State Penitentiary.

Four convicts were dead, two of them killed by the rioters. Twenty-three were wounded, two critically.

Three guards, including one who was held all night as a hostage, were injured and one was stricken with a heart attack.

Damage to prison property may reach 10 million dollars, officers said.

The end came when 80 state highway patrolmen raced into B and C hall and fired one shot from a riot gun. Within five minutes the first of the hold-out rioters appeared in the doorway, hands clasped behind his head.

They came out by twos and threes to squat in front of officers spaced across the quadrangle under the protection of machine gun emplacements manned by National Guardsmen.

Show Little Fight
Warden Ralph Eidson, who entered the hold-out building with the first wave of patrolmen, said the men showed little fight.

Inside, officers found the beaten body of William Garrett, 29-year-old convict serving four years for grand larceny.

He was the second prisoner to die at the hands of the rioters. Earlier, they had killed Walter Lee Donnell, 30, a parole violator who had "rattled" on other prisoners.

Two other convicts were killed by officers who fired when milling prisoners attempted to rush a gate in the wall of the administration building, leading to the deputy warden's office.

Three convicts were killed early in the riot. Joe Lamar, prison identification officer, said they were J. C. Swink, 32, serving five years for car theft; Don Manny, 19, serving five years for robbery; and Walter Lee Donnell, 30, a parole violator doing five years.

The prison-riot was touched off Wednesday night when a group of prisoners broke from a disciplinary cell block and roamed through the prison freeing fellow inmates. At the height of the riot, some 800 convicts roamed the yard, shouting defiance at guards on the 20-foot walls and hurling bricks through windows of the prison administration building.

Burned buildings included the school building, the first set afire, the clothing factory, the auto tag plant, the twine plant, the Protestant chapel, and a clothing warehouse.

Select Jury to Hear Suit Against City in Drownings

A lawsuit against the city which resulted from the drowning of two small boys was begun today before Circuit Judge C. Ross Reynolds.

The jury was being chosen this morning to hear the evidence in the case in which Charles J. Cummins seeks a judgment in the deaths of his sons, Charles, 7, and Paul, 5, who drowned in a borrow pit adjacent to the city reservoir on June 9, 1952.

Representing Cummins, the administrator of the two estates, are Atty. Lester Lightfoot of this city and Atty. Ralph Harris of Marion. The city is represented by City Attorney D. F. Runsey and DeWitt Twente of Harrisburg.

Yesterday a jury heard a case and gave neither side a verdict. It was a highway accident case, Joe L. Gross vs. Ralph Colbert. Mitchell and Roan of Mt. Vernon represented Gross. Atty. Twente represented Colbert.

Also yesterday Chester Golliver was arraigned before Judge Reynolds and entered pleas of guilty to two counts of larceny but sentence was withheld because of the request of his attorney, Joe M. A REPUBLICAN CARAVAN stopped in Harrisburg last night for a speaking program at the court house, part of the campaign before the November election, and here are some of the dignitaries present: Front row, left to right: Robert G. Miley of Galatia, chairman of the Saline County Republican Central Committee and president of the Illinois Republican County Chairman's association, who presided; Vernon L. Nickell, state superintendent of public instruction seeking reelection; Warren Wright, nominee for state treasurer; Joseph T. Meek, nominee for United States senator; and Cong. C. W. "Runt" Bishop, seeking reelection. At rear are Gordon Kerr of Brookport, seeking reelection to the house of representatives; and Glen O. Jones, Raleigh, seeking election as state senator. Rep. W. O. Meek Praises Eisenhower Coal Action As Aid to Southern Illinois

Addresses GOP
Meeting Held
At Court House

Joseph T. Meek, in Harrisburg on what he called "Eisenhower's Republican Crusade," last night declared that "we have peace in America tonight only because, in my opinion, President Eisenhower had the military prestige to bring it about."

Speaking at the GOP meeting at the court house along with Vernon L. Nickell, seeking reelection as state superintendent of public instruction, Warren Wright, nominee for state treasurer, and Cong. C. W. "Runt" Bishop, seeking reelection, Meek, the GOP nominee for United States senator running against Sen. Paul Douglas said: "The objective of the Eisenhower administration is that there forever be peace," he said, urging the election of a Republican congress so that the objectives could be carried out.

Aids Southern Illinois
Meek charged that under the Truman administration, the government was less interested in the welfare of its people, like in southern Illinois, than in any of the foreign countries.

"The Democratic party was trying desperately to forget you," he stated, "while only yesterday President Eisenhower announced that the administration was securing ten million tons of coal for other countries with southern Illinois to get its share."

"For 20 years," he continued, "the other side has said it would do something and in two years something has been done by the Eisenhower administration."

Meek listed the things he stands for as follows:

Peace, limiting the national debt, slicing of foreign handouts, against price and wage controls, for tax reforms to give incentive to the little fellow for collective bargaining, for real social security, for the customer's market, and for integrity in the White House.

He told of the advances under Eisenhower, of the cut in income taxes, the stripping of all legal rights from the Communist party with 50 leaders convicted, more than 90 deported and more than 2,000 separated from security risks. He said he was proud of the extension of social security benefits under Eisenhower, and the integrity of the President.

Attacking Douglas, he said "Douglas would rather be re-elected than be right."

Cong. Bishop, of Carverville, told of the GOP need for a majority to help Eisenhower carry out his objectives and urged the voters to accept the responsibility of putting Meek in office.

Bishop took up the Democratic slogan "Don't Blame Me—I Voted Democratic," and said a better one would be "Peace—Peace—I Voted Republican."

Praises Teacher Recruitment
Wright told of his experience in the office of state treasurer in 1940, declaring that he put a GOP surplus of $67,500,000 in government bonds during the two years.

The amount of bonds, he said, was built up under other GOP treasurers until it was $150,000,000, declaring "this was dissipated by Gov. Adlai Stevenson."

Nickell said that the nationwide

Timothy Sisk, 77, former resident of the Cottage Grove community south of Eldorado but recently of Antler, N. D., died yesterday in the Boteau hospital in Boteau, N. D., following a leg amputation six weeks ago.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ella Dugger of Eldorado, and six children: Alma, Mrs. Ruby Frederickson, and Jack, all of Oregon; Lyle, Roscoe and Abraham, all of Antler, N. D.; two brothers, R. B. Sisk, Harrisburg, Aubrey, Equality, and a sister, Mrs. Georgia Lively of Marion.

Had Pleaded Innocent
He was convicted of participating in Communist propaganda broadcasts, of leading propaganda classes among other POWs, of extolling the virtue of communism in such classes, and of attacking U. S. war aims in articles written for enemy publications.

The defendant, whose hair turned white during his long captivity at the hands of the Communists, was found innocent of several minor charges that he stamped on the foot of another Yank soldier and informed twice on other prisoners.

Fleming received the announcement of his conviction without a show of emotion but his wife almost broke into tears and his daughter became white and rigid.

Autumn Begins
As Old Timers
See Hard Winter

By United Press
Autumn began today with crackle-barrel forecasts predicting a hard winter and there was plenty of evidence that this is the "nutty" season.

The fall season began officially when the sun crossed the Equator into the Southern Hemisphere at 5:56 a. m. EDT.

But for many Americans, autumn became a reality two days ago when a wave of Arctic air blasted south to the Gulf of Mexico bringing frost that extended into Indiana this morning.

The chilly winds seemed to bear out the prediction of old timers who noted that rabbits are carrying extra-heavy pelts. They predicted rough, cold and snowy weather for the coming winter.

Donnie N. Watts, the one-man almanac of Baldwin, Ga., said he saw sure signs of a hard winter "just around the corner."

"Cockle burrs are ripe already," he said, "and that means an early frost. The shucks on the corn are heavier, the bark on trees is thicker and hugger the branches."

"The old farm mule has a double coat of hair and all the animals and birds are getting ready for the worst winter in many years."

At Richmond, Ohio, Miss Eunice Merton of Merriam Hills made her semi-annual weather prediction based on the "Bangs Corners Bug Barometer." She concluded the next few months will "blizzard you raw."

"Too nice a summer, too nice a fall, soon comes the time to pay for it all," Miss Merton rhymed.

She bases her opinion on observations of the woolly caterpillars. "There is perishing cold to come," she said. "Better be ready."

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON
DREW PEARSON Says: Federal Power Commissioners Get Free Junkets From Power Lobbyists: While Fixing Gas Rates, FP Commissioners Get Free Entertainment; FPC Now Hearing Rate Case Of Great Interest To Northern Housewives.

WASHINGTON — The Federal Power Commission opened hearings yesterday on natural gas rates affecting the housewives of Michigan, Wisconsin and other northern states. Simultaneously certain commission members have become palsy-walsy with gas and electric lobbyists.
In contrast to previous years, FP commissioners today think nothing of going on free junkets paid for by the gas and utility industry in a manner that never could have happened when Sen. George Norris was watching the power lobby. And since one of President Truman's assistants, Don Dawson, reaped headlines for getting his hotel bill paid during a visit to Miami, it might be a good idea to scrutinize the Federal Power Commission, whose members influence the nation's economy far more than a White House assistant.
Last year, the three Republican members of the Power commission were taken on a grand tour of the southwest by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association — all expenses paid.
The commissioners who took the trip were FP chairman Jerome Kuykendall, appointed by Eisenhower; Seaborn Digby, also an Eisenhower man, and Nelson Lee Smith, a Republican holdover. Also along was Willard Gatchell, FPC general counsel who had ear trouble and couldn't fly. So while the others flew, the gas company hosts went to the trouble and expense of carrying Gatchell separately by auto.
Asked about the trip, Chairman Kuykendall explained that if he had been the guest of the company only he would not have gone. But he said he considered it was proper to take the trip as the guest of the entire industry.
DEMOCRATS ABSTAIN
Power commissioners of previous years, however, would never have let themselves get indebted to the gas industry, the electric power industry or any other industry. And it may be significant that Commissioner Dale E. Doty, appointed by President Truman, and Commissioner Claude Draper, who has been on the commission for more than 20 years, did not attend.
Chairman Kuykendall, who seems to be a sincere though naive gentleman, also admitted that he attended a cocktail party in his honor given by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Morley, partner in the law firm of Wheat, Shannon and May, which represents the West Coast Transmission Co., then applying for a certificate to serve the Pacific Northwest with natural gas.
Kuykendall claims he wasn't keen about going to this party and told his wife to decline it on the grounds that they had another invitation. However, the Morleys changed the date, after which the Kuykendalls felt they had to accept. At the party were the other Republican commissioners — Nelson Lee Smith and Seaborn Digby.
BIG POWER LOBBYIST
At the party also was Ed Falck, one of the most active power company lobbyists in Washington. And after the cocktail party the Kuykendalls and the Digbys allowed themselves to be taken to dinner by the big utility lobbyist.
The activities of lobbyist Falck are so amazing that they will have to be taken up in a separate column, except perhaps for his social activities which can be touched upon briefly here.

Significantly, Falck flew to Chicago with Chairman Kuykendall a year ago to attend the National Association of Railroad and Utility Executives, though Kuykendall says it was pure coincidence that they happened to be on the same plane. The government paid Kuykendall's fare.
In Chicago, however, he admits that lobbyist Falck threw a dinner for members of the executive committee. After another executive committee meeting at the Raleigh hotel last January, lobbyist Falck invited the members to his home for a party. Kuykendall and Commissioner Smith attended.
Note — What the Power commission is now considering is one of the most important cases in the nation — the price rates to be charged for the transmission of natural gas north from Texas and Louisiana. The commission previously held that it had no power to regulate the rates, but the Supreme Court reversed them. They now have to decide what these rates should be and obviously should not have their judgment warped by the same kind of free hotel bills or social favors for which the Trumanites were criticized.

McCARTHY GO-ROUND
The junior senators assigned to investigate Senator McCarthy had to be drafted for the job. Sen. Frank Carlson, Kansas Republican, made a final appeal to Sen. Gene Millikin, Colorado Republican, to head the investigation but Millikin used his seniority to duck it. Senate Majority Leader Bill Knowland of California has been excusing McCarthy for taking $10,000 from Lustron on the grounds that other senators write articles and make speeches for pay. Knowland apparently has forgotten the circumstances under which McCarthy accepted the $10,000. The check from Lustron was dated Nov. 12, 1948. Exactly seven days before the Senate investigating committee launched a probe of Lustron. In other words, McCarthy was paid by the company that his committee was investigating. But that isn't all. As vice chairman of the Joint Housing committee, McCarthy had been barnstorming around the country, boosting Lustron's product — prefabricated houses. No wonder Lustron's president, Carl Strandlund, boasted he had "powerful friends" in Congress. This boast, made a few days after the $10,000 payment to McCarthy, is a matter of record at the RFE.

Speaking of the past, the story has never been told of how McCarthy tried to bamboozle Montana's shy ex-Sen. Zales Ecton out of an assignment on the powerful Appropriations committee. Both had equal seniority, so lots were drawn for the Appropriations post. McCarthy and Ecton each drew a sealed envelope, one of which contained the Appropriations assignment. McCarthy hastily tore open his envelope, broke into a broad grin, then walked over to Ecton and "sympathized" with him for losing. Dejectedly, Ecton tossed his envelope in the wastebasket without opening it. Later, a committee aide opened Ecton's envelope, discovered he had actually won. McCarthy, as usual, had been bluffing.

GOP and Demos Carry Fight To Far West

Eisenhower Leads Republicans; Kefauver Hits Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (UP) — Both parties carried their fight for control of the next Congress to the Far West today with President Eisenhower leading the way for the Republicans.
Mr. Eisenhower, on a four-state swing through the West, gave firm endorsement Wednesday to Rep. Wesley D'Ewart (R-Mont) in his bid to unseat veteran Democratic Sen. James E. Murray. D'Ewart appeared on the platform with the chief executive at Missoula, Mont.
The President was scheduled to speak out today on the politically explosive power issue in a speech at the dedication of big McNary Dam on the Columbia River between Washington and Oregon. From there he goes to California for two other major speeches.
Kefauver Blasts GOP
Before Mr. Eisenhower reached California, the foreign policy of his administration came under heavy fire from Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) in a speech at San Francisco. Kefauver said American prestige and leadership in the world has sunk to an "all-time" low under the GOP administration.
Kefauver, making his first speech of the fall campaign, also said people abroad feel that the administration failed to understand the importance of "McCarthyism" and was "negligent in taking steps to deal with it."

Recalling a phrase the GOP used two years ago to describe Democratic foreign policy, Kefauver said the policy of the present administration ranges from "timid appeasement to reckless bluster."
Kefauver is on a 19-state tour in behalf of Democratic congressional candidates in the Nov. 2 election.
Martin Predicts Victory
Elsewhere in the west, House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. said at Seattle, Wash., that the GOP would pick up between 10 and 15 House and two to three Senate seats in the November balloting. He said he knew of no "single place" where his party would lose strength.
Martin is in Washington to campaign for three GOP congressional candidates who face the toughest competition from Democrats.

In Duluth, Minn., Vice President Richard M. Nixon said a Republican defeat in November would deal a "body blow" to Mr. Eisenhower's program. He said "moderate" Democrats could not control legislation any more than they control their party now.
Warns Of Socialism
He said if the "Truman-ADA-Stevenson" wing of the Democratic party wins control of the 84th Congress the country will "swing back down the leftward road toward socialism." The Eisenhower administration, Nixon said, has gone "down the high middle road, avoiding the soft shoulders on the left and the ruts on the right."
GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall sounded somewhat the same note in New York. He said a Democratic win Nov. 2 would be "tragic to contemplate" because the administration's program would be "stopped cold by those to whom political advantage outweighs the general welfare."
New York Democrats, meanwhile, showed signs of unity following a bitter scrap for the gubernatorial nomination between W. Averell

H-Blast Dust Is Fatal to Jap Fisherman

TOKYO (UP) — A Japanese seaman became the first man in history today to die as a result of a hydrogen bomb blast.
Aikichi Kuboyama, radio operator of the atom-dusted tuna boat Fortunate Dragon, died at 6:56 p. m.
Although Kuboyama's death came as an outgrowth of a hydrogen bomb blast, it was pointed out that American doctors never were allowed to examine him. And there were some reports that impure blood used for transfusions contributed to the seaman's death.
The 40-year-old Kuboyama was the oldest of 23 crewmen of the fishing boat who were dusted by radioactive fallout from the March 1 Bikini H-bomb test.
He died at the First National Hospital here, where he had been confined with 15 of the crewmen since last March 28.
Had Rallied from Coma
Kuboyama almost died earlier this month when he sank into a week-long coma. He rallied but again became seriously ill last Monday.
His earlier crisis was caused by Harriman and Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.
Roosevelt, who lost the nomination to Harriman, agreed to carry the Democratic banner in the race for attorney general.

Brigham Young became head of the Mormon Church after the death of Joseph Smith in 1844.
SALEM, Ore. — Scott William Anderson, father of nine children and grandfather of 13, graduated magna cum laude from Willamette University this spring.
Anderson, 54, majored in religion when he entered Willamette two years ago. Previously he studied social science at Los Angeles Valley Junior College in California. He maintained a grade point average of 3.75 out of a possible 4.
After his graduation Anderson and his wife went to see one of their sons graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Another son is with the Navy in Japan, and a third son graduated from high school here while his father was graduating from college.

Meek Praises Coal Action by Eisenhower teacher shortages find Illinois in better condition than any of the neighboring states.

"Seeing that schools would be faced with increased enrollments we anticipated this problem four years ago," Nickell said. "As a result of the teacher recruitment program we set up then, Illinois today has a more nearly adequate supply of teachers than most states."

He praised the PTA's, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce and other organizations for their aid in the teacher recruitment program.

Nickell pointed out that since he assumed office the Illinois educational system had risen from near the bottom in national ratings to among the top five.

Robert G. Miley, chairman of the Saline County Republican Central committee, presided last night. Besides the speakers he introduced Glen O. Jones, for state senator; Gordon E. Kerr and W. O. Verhines for state representatives, and the following county candidates: Paul Hilliard for county clerk, George B. Lee for county judge, Paul Spangler for county treasurer, Laymon Jones for sheriff and R. Dale Wilson for county superintendent of schools.

At the end of the program Meek was presented a goat, with the sign, "Meek Gets Goat of America's No. 1 Goat—Gloomy Paul."

Get Volume 1 for only 25¢ — thereafter add a volume a week for only 99¢ each — until you own the complete 12-volume set

Think of it! A complete 12-volume set of this brand-new, up-to-the-minute masterwork — THE NEW WONDER BOOK CYCLOPEDIA OF WORLD KNOWLEDGE — yours at the truly sensational price of only 99¢ per volume.

Here is Kroger's customer "dividend", the opportunity to own at less than 1/3 the publisher's original price this classic of "knowledge at your fingertips." Nor do you have to pay for the whole set at one time. Under our easy book-a-week plan, you buy one volume a week until you own the entire 12-volume set. It's as easy as that!

What treasures can you give your children as life-lasting as this gift of knowledge?

Unlike old-fashioned encyclopedias, THE NEW WONDER BOOK CYCLOPEDIA makes it thrilling and exciting for children to add daily to their knowledge. Here is a "tutor in print" — an easy, fascinating way to find the right answers to the "hard" questions in their school work — to cultivate the look-it-up habit — to satisfy, rather than squelch, your children's curiosity about the world they live in — to cultivate the reading and learning habit — to give your children the advantages of knowledge which will help them become successes in adult life.

For adults, the key to self-confidence

THE NEW WONDER BOOK CYCLOPEDIA is a help to thinking and intelligent discussion on thousands of subjects... an easy way to be well informed and to understand the "inside facts" about the countless questions that come up in the day's news... a wonderful way to settle disputed questions on the spot.

Not a reprint, not a rehash — IT'S BRAND NEW!

THE NEW WONDER BOOK CYCLOPEDIA OF WORLD KNOWLEDGE is an entirely new work, first completed and copyrighted in the United States in 1954. It is published by one of the country's foremost educational book houses, one whose imprint appears on many of the textbooks used by your children. It is so up-to-the-minute that you can turn to it for the easy-to-understand facts about the hydrogen bomb, "the wonder drugs," Chlorophyll, 3-D movies, guided missiles and thousands of other topics.

Captured After Shooting; Wife is Rescued

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—Police today captured Harold Marlow, 28, who seriously wounded his sister-in-law and kidnapped his wife Wednesday night.

The officers rescued his wife, Delores, who was unharmed.

The capture was made in a house just outside the city. Police said they got a tip Marlow and his wife were in the house. The unidentified tipster said Marlow was armed.

She was described as in a state of nervous shock. Police said Marlow refused to talk after his capture and Mrs. Marlow could not be questioned.

Marlow was charged with assault with intent to kill and was held in Macon county jail. Police said he may be in a state of mental derangement.

The shooting and kidnapping occurred about 10 p. m. Wednesday as Mrs. Marlow left the Illinois Bell Telephone building where she works.

Her sister, Miss Ruby Sparks, 20, Decatur, and Miss Sparks' boy friend, Lawrence Ferguson, were waiting for her near the telephone office. They saw someone in her car and the three walked together toward the car.

As they reached the vehicle, Marlow jumped out, brandishing a gun. He grabbed his wife and forced her into Ferguson's car, ordering Ferguson to drive.

Decatur Police Chief Glenn Kervin said the Sparks girl grabbed for the gun and Marlow shot her three times, twice in the chest and once in an arm. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Kervin said Marlow then dragged his wife down the street from the shooting scene.

Marlow had been named twice on threat warrants by his wife. The first charge was filed last May, the second Sept. 2. Marlow was arrested Sept. 3 on the second charge but was released Sept. 8 when the charge was dropped.

Marlow also was reported to have made threats some time ago against his father-in-law, Charles R. Sparks, Beecher City.

THE UNANSWERED WHY

By Marjorie Duvall Reeves

Three years have passed and time has helped.

Yet never has there been revealed

Why thou, O God, did choose for thine

Two children I thought were mine.

Time has helped, but oh, the tears

That oft have flowed these three years.

Thou, Lord, hast been my constant guide,

Walking always by my side.

Teach me, O Lord, to understand

The workings of a mightier Hand;

Then shall I know the victory's won

When I can say, "Thy will WAS done."

Reds Protest Umps' Decision In Weird Play

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Milwaukee baseball fans today pondered the year's strangest play and the third time in history if Willie Mays and Bobby Avila maintain their present paces.

Mays, the Giants' rollicking center fielder, collected one hit in two times at bat Wednesday to keep his pace-setting National league average at .346. Brooklyn's Duke Snider is second with a .340 mark. Brooklyn has three more games and New York four.

Avila, Indians' second baseman, virtually clinched the American league crown by getting two for four to raise his average to .337. Minnie Mingo of the White Sox, the runner-up, went one for two against Cleveland's Don Mossi and his average remained at .326 with two more games. Cleveland has three more games.

The last time the league batting champions clashed in the series was 1931 when Chick Hafey (.349) of Cincinnati and Al Simmons (.390) of Philadelphia won the titles. The only other World Series meeting between the batting kings occurred in 1909 when Hans Wagner (.339) of Pittsburgh and Ty Cobb (.377) of Detroit led the rival pennant winners.

Actually, Wednesday was a banner day for pitchers in both leagues with rookies Karl Spooner of Brooklyn and Mossi posting the most significant triumphs.

Spooner, the Texas league's top strikeout king since Dizzy Dean, made a brilliant major league debut when he set a record of 15 strikeouts during a three-hit, 3-0 victory over the Giants. It was the most strikeouts ever recorded by a rookie in his first major league game, breaking the mark of 13 set by Cliff Melton of the Giants in 1937.

Spooner was one short of the club record but posted the highest single game performance in the National league this year, bettering the total of 13 fanned by Harvey Haddix of the Cardinals.

Tribe Takes Record
Mossi boosted his record to 6-1 and Cleveland's victory total to 110 with a five-hit, 3-1 triumph over the White Sox. Jack Harshman, Chicago rookie, gave up only seven hits as Cleveland tied the American league record for victories in a single season set by the 1927 Yankees.

In the only other American league games, Steve Gromek pitched a four-hitter for his 18th 1954 victory as the Tigers beat the Orioles, 4-1, and southpaw Tommy Byrne of the Yankees, backed by a triple play, scattered five hits in a 3-0 victory over the Senators.

The pitchers also choked off the hitters in the other National league games. Rookie Brooks Lawrence of the Cardinals raised his record to 14-6 with a five-hit, 6-3 victory over the Cubs, and Milwaukee's Ernie Johnson, with ninth-inning relief help from Warren Spahn, pitched a five-hit, 3-1 victory over the Redlegs.

The Phillies swept both games of a two-night doubleheader from the Pirates on the pitching of Curt Simmons and Robin Roberts to move within a game of the fourth-place Redlegs. Simmons posted a six-hit, 12-1 triumph and Roberts followed with a four-hit, 5-1 victory.

Batting Champs May Meet In Series; Dodger Rookie Strikes Out 15 in 3-0 Win

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer

The league batting champions will clash in the World Series for the first time since 1931 and the third time in history if Willie Mays and Bobby Avila maintain their present paces.

Mays, the Giants' rollicking center fielder, collected one hit in two times at bat Wednesday to keep his pace-setting National league average at .346. Brooklyn's Duke Snider is second with a .340 mark. Brooklyn has three more games and New York four.

Avila, Indians' second baseman, virtually clinched the American league crown by getting two for four to raise his average to .337. Minnie Mingo of the White Sox, the runner-up, went one for two against Cleveland's Don Mossi and his average remained at .326 with two more games. Cleveland has three more games.

The last time the league batting champions clashed in the series was 1931 when Chick Hafey (.349) of Cincinnati and Al Simmons (.390) of Philadelphia won the titles. The only other World Series meeting between the batting kings occurred in 1909 when Hans Wagner (.339) of Pittsburgh and Ty Cobb (.377) of Detroit led the rival pennant winners.

Ban Night Grid Games by High Schools in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Superintendent of Schools Benjamin Willis banned all night high school football games for the remainder of the season Wednesday to prevent further rowdiness and gang fights.

The action came after gang fights broke out last weekend at four public high school games between Negro and white youths. Eleven police squads were summoned to quell one of the fights.

Under Willis' plan, 16 night games remaining on the schedule will be played on Friday and Saturday afternoons.

"Night games are more for outside spectators than for students," Willis said. "We think the nearer we can keep our extra-curricular activities to the school day the easier everything will be."

Eldorado Eagles Play Metropolis Friday Night In First Home Game

Friday night the Eldorado Eagles will open their 1954 home football season, hosting the Metropolis Trojans.

Al Adams, native of Eldorado and former ETHS football great, is starting his eighth year as head football coach at the school, making him dean among the independent coaching ranks. In fact, among the conference as well as non-conference teams there are few coaches with more years of service with one school.

The Metropolis team is also coached by a home town boy, Charles Hopson, a graduate of the Metropolis high school.

Both teams opened away from home last Friday and copied victories. Eldorado took Anna 14-12 and Metropolis was an 18-6 victor over Sesser.

The Trojans include 10 lettermen on the squad and the predictions are that this will be the fastest Metropolis team since pre-war days.

Trojans Fast
Following is a quote from the Metropolis News, "Coach Hopson's 1954 model team is expected to turn out the fastest, most brilliant brand of football seen in the Trojans' camp since football was resumed at MCHS after World War II. With less weight in the line, and a fast, hard-pounding backfield, the Trojans promise fast, colorful action on the gridiron this fall."

Last Friday, against Sesser, Fred Gillespie scored two TDs for Metropolis—one on a four yard plunge and another on a 28-yard run. The other came on Ken Williams' 10 yard plunge. Gillespie is a full-back and Williams plays a half-back spot.

Sesser hit pay dirt when half-back Enbanks took a kickoff and ran 85 yards through Metropolis for a TD.

Coach Al Adams' Eldorado squad showed lots of potential strength last Friday by taking a 14-12 decision from Anna. With a lineup dotted with juniors playing their first varsity ball, there were signs of jitters in the early stages of the game, but the team improved as the game progressed. The Eagles may prove to be the "surprise" club in this area.

Play Harrisburg Oct. 1
Capt. Sutton and Ace Gwaltney, halfbacks, were consistent ground gainers against a big Anna line, scouting along for yardage on almost every effort. Potts also showed ability as a ball carrier from his fullback spot and Clark, the quarterback, passed well and handled the team in good fashion.

The line looked strong, especially from tackle to tackle and the ends were improving with each play. However, the strength of Anna is unknown, so the real worth of the Eldorado club will have to be proved in later games.

Following Friday's game, Eldorado and Harrisburg will meet at Taylor Field, Oct. 1.

All Eldorado home games start at 7:30 p. m. and admission is adults 75 cents, students 35 cents. Games this week in southern Illinois:

Marion at Harrisburg.
Sesser at Christopher.
Mt. Vernon at Herrin.
Zeigler at Carterville.

Penn State Coach Says Illinois Has Nation's Best Backs

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP)—Penn State Coach Rip Engle, pretty well fixed with backfield material himself, said today the Nittany Lions will face the "best backfield in the country" Saturday when they tangle with Illinois.

"Illinois probably has the best backfield in the country," Engle said as his squad prepared to leave for Champaign, Ill., and Penn State's initial grid meeting with the Illini.

"Their rating as one of the nation's top teams seems justified," he added. "We have been hampered by injuries in practice, but we'll do our best to stop the strong attack Illinois is bound to throw at us."

Co-captains Jim Garrity and Don Balthaser summed up the Lions' general feeling about the Illinois game by paying tribute to Illinois' "terrific twosome," J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates.

Garrity, a question mark in Engle's opener plans because of a leg injury, said the entire Penn State team respects Caroline and Bates.

"When you run up against backs as fine as these two, you just know you are in for a tough game," said the pass-catching Irishman from Monaca, Pa.

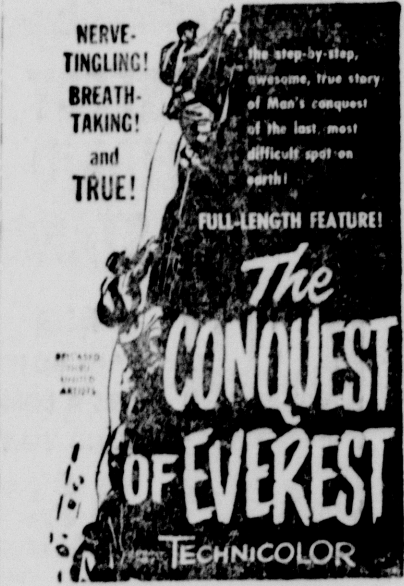

"We aren't likely to meet a better combination than those two boys all season," Balthaser added.

Carter Wins 10- Round Decision

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ex-lightweight champion Jimmy Carter today faced the task of "getting up" for champion Paddy DeMarco for the third time after taking out his frustration Wednesday night with a bruising 10-round decision over Freddie (Babe) Herman in a nationally televised Cow Palace substitute bout.

The squash-nosed better from Long Island had plenty of frustration to take out on the hapless Los Angeles club fighter. It was the second time Carter had trained himself to a peak for his rematch with DeMarco, only to have the fight postponed due to the champion's ailments.

Indians Favored Over Giants in Series With Fine 1-2-3 Hurling Punch

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Pitching usually is the determining factor in a World Series, and if it should prove to be that way again this year the Cleveland Indians should beat the New York Giants.

For in Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia the Indians have the finest one-two-three hurling punch in baseball. Through Tuesday's games they had a total of 64 victories—12 more than the top three of the Giants staff—Sal Maglie, Johnny Antonelli and Ruben Gomez.

Back of his top three, Manager Al Lopez also has stronger second-line hurling in Bob Feller and Art Houtteman as possible starters with Hal Newhouser, Don Mossi and Ray Narleski in relief. Possible Giant starters back of their big three are Marv Grissom, a relief ace, and Don Liddle, a little southpaw. If Grissom is used as a starter, it will mean that Hoyt Wilhelm will be the No. 1 relief man. Jim Hearn is another starting possibility for the Giants with John McCall, Al Worthington and Al Corwin in the bullpen with Wilhelm.

To start Lemon or Wynn

The advance dope is that Lopez will start either Lemon (23-6) or Early Wynn (22-11) with Garcia (19-8) going in the third game and Feller (13-3) in the fourth.

If Lemon goes for the Indians, Manager Leo Durocher may counter with Antonelli (21-6) because southpaws usually are more effective against the Indians than right-handers. Besides, Lemon, a good hitter, bats left-handed.

However, it is believed that Durocher would like to start Maglie (14-6) on the theory that if he works the first game he would be available to work another contest in the series. Maglie, who lists his age at 37, needs a lot of rest between games.

Gomez Believed Third Starter
Gomez (17-9) is almost sure to start in the third game. During their long spring exhibition series during which the Giants won 13 out of the 21 games played, the Indians had more trouble with Gomez and his screw ball than any other Giant hurler.

Lopez has said that he would like to give Houtteman (15-7) a starting shot. The Indians manager is likely to use Lemon, Wynn and Garcia in relief as well as starters, although in the aging Newhouser (7-2) and rookies Mossi (5-1) and Narleski (3-2) he has a good relief corps.

If Grissom (10-7) is used as a starter, Wilhelm (12-4) will be the Giants relief ace, with McCall, a southpaw, probably back of the knuckleball throwing right-hander. McCall's record is only 2-3 but he has been effective lately. Liddle (8-4) may be used both as a starter and reliever and the same is true of Hearn (8-8).

Indianapolis Wins Opener of Final Playoff Series

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Indianapolis Indians, who opened the final American Association playoff with a 6-5 extra-inning victory, will send either Bob Kelly or Herb Score to the mound tonight in an effort to make it two in a row over Louisville.

The Indians and Colonels duelled for 12 innings Wednesday night before the Tribe scored on an unearned run to take the first game of the best-of-seven series. Cold weather held the attendance to 1,968.

FHA Official is Cleared of Hatch Act Violation

CHICAGO (U-P)—A report written by an assistant to U. S. Dist. Atty. Robert Ticken cleared James C. Moreland, FHA head here, of any suspicion of Hatch Act violation in connection with a note written Sen. Everett M. Dirksen about an FHA applicant, it was learned today.

Moreland conferred late Tuesday with Richard B. Ogilvie, Ticken's assistant, and the report was written by Ogilvie for presentation to Ticken.

The matter was a result of the FHA investigation here last week directed by Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.). It was disclosed Moreland had written a personal note to Dirksen across a letter received from a supporter of Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), saying a building project in which the letter-writer was interested had received an FHA "windfall." Capehart said reports of the "windfall" were false.

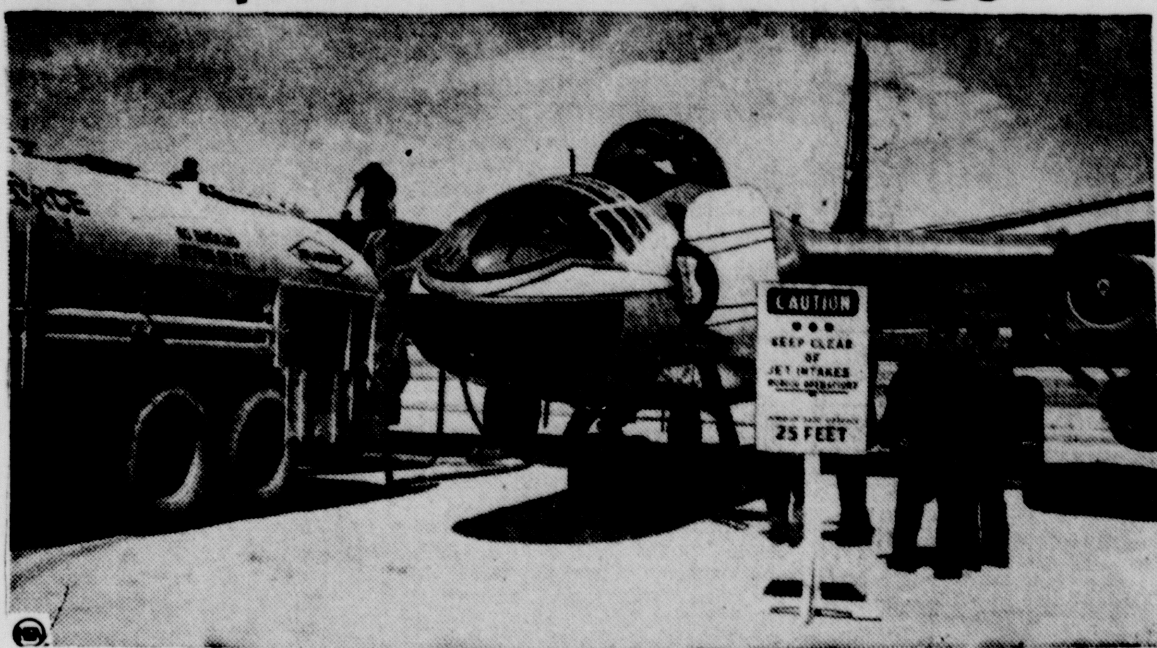

Moreland assured the committee at the time that he thought Dirksen still was a member of the banking committee, which is handling the FHA investigation, and said his note was a purely personal affair.

The Hatch Act forbids political activity on the part of federal employees.

Air Force Setting Record Safe-Flying Rate Despite Crashes of Giant B-36

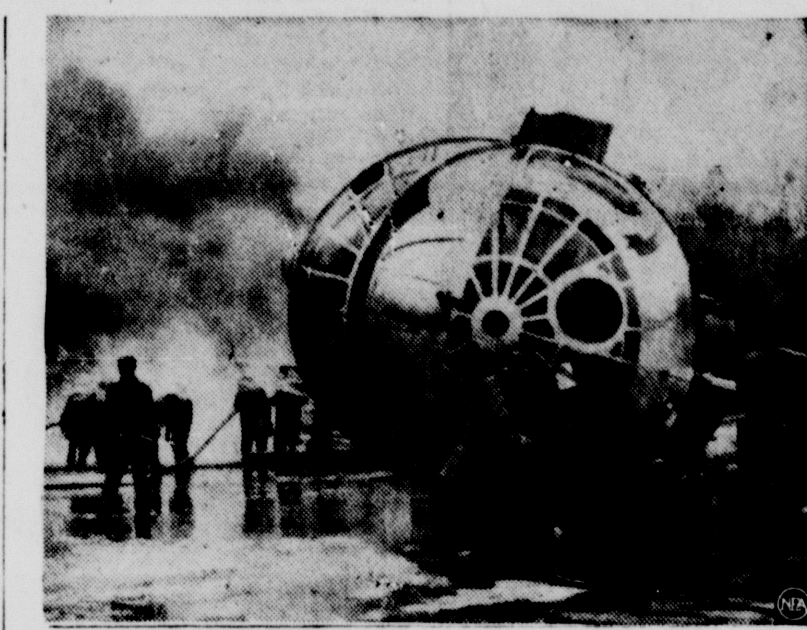

AIR FORCE CAMPAIGN FOR SAFETY starts on the field, where elaborate precautions are set up to prevent fire during refueling of this B-45 or accidents from getting too close to air intake.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—The U. S. Air Force is setting an all-time record for safe flying this year.

This is despite an apparent rash of recent accidents, climaxed by the crashes of two giant B-36 bombers which killed 28 men.

Detailed figures on crashes are one of the Air Force's most closely guarded secrets because they give a revealing insight into the number of its operations and the state of efficiency.

CONTROVERSIAL B-36 made headlines with crashes that left wreckage like this, but all-Air Force safety record is best ever.

Thus, the Air Force only reveals a rate figure. It is based on the number of major accidents per 100,000 hours of flying.

The new, all-Air Force record rate is 21 for this year.

In 1922, flying in the old Army Air Corps reached its most hazardous point with an average of 506 major accidents for every 100,000 hours flown.

In 1941 the rate was 63. There are no figures from the war years, but in 1946 it was 61. And it has been going down steadily ever since. Combat accidents are not included in this safety rate.

An accident is considered "major" if the plane is demolished or if more than a certain number of hours are required to repair it. In the case of a B-36, for instance, an accident is "major" if more than 750 man-hours are required to fix it for flying.

The controversial B-36 has been called a flying turkey by critics. But it has been developed into at least a safe airplane. Its accident rate was 16 in 1952, 10 last year, and is running the same now. The total number of announced crashes has been 15, with 158 men killed.

Its rate is only slightly above that of the B-50—eight in 1952 and 11 last year. The B-29 Superforts set a safety record for all bombers last year with a rate of six, which is being maintained as the planes are being phased out of use.

Much of the credit for the improving safety of Air Force flying goes to the extensive program carried on under Maj. Gen. Victor E. Bertrands, deputy inspector general, with headquarters at Norton Air Force Base, Calif.

The safety program under him touches everything from telling pilots how to breathe through their oxygen masks to showing mechanics how to tighten nuts with the proper amount of pressure. It even goes into aircraft design.

As a result everyone in the Air Force working on problems of design, training and operations have become acutely safety-conscious.

Introduction of a new type plane into operational use always means a high accident rate for it until the bugs are removed. For instance, the B-47 jet bomber had an accident rate of 76 in 1952 as it was being turned over to AF groups. But last year the rate was down to 26 and this year it is running 14.

Contrary to popular belief, the jets with their tremendous speeds have not increased the AF's accident rate. But many AF safety experts are concerned lest the new line of supersonic fighters coming up could begin straining the capabilities of the pilots.

Last year the accident rate of the jet fighters was 56. That is lower than it ever was for the old prop fighter planes.

Training operations have always

Kerosening Trees to Kill Ants is Bad for Trees

KENT, O. — (U-P) — Pouring gasoline or kerosene around the base of a tree to discourage ants is a good way to kill the tree. Each summer, Davey tree experts find trees with dead bark around the trunks at ground level. Virtually nothing can be done to save them. The best way to deal with most tree ants is to leave them alone. Few types do any harm.

Gulf Introduces New Gasoline, Super-Refined

A completely new and different gasoline, super-refined to meet the demands of today's high-compression engines, is currently being introduced by Gulf Refining company. The new product is now available both here and throughout Gulf's entire territory.

By refining out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—more than a cupful to every gallon—Gulf has been able to produce an unusually clean-burning gasoline that provides thousands of extra miles of full engine power.

Final road testing of the new product—called Super-Refined Gulf No-Nox—was made in the Gulf Test Caravans which were in this area recently, according to R. R. Cavender, Gulf's Harrisburg distributor. "Conducting road tests in the areas where the fuel actually will be used is the only way to accurately determine its performance characteristics," Mr. Cavender added.

Throughout the entire trip, on which the caravans accumulated a quarter of a million miles, none of the cars experienced even a single instance of carbon knock or pre-ignition, even on the steepest mountain grades. At the end of the test, every car was performing better than new, according to the company's supervising engineers.

"Instead of relying on additives to fight trouble-making deposits, Gulf has succeeded in producing a motor fuel that prevents the excessive deposits from forming in the first place," says Mr. Cavender. "Extra gasoline mileage has been provided by specially blending the new fuel for the short-trip, stop-and-go driving that most drivers do most of the time. Anti-knock power has been stepped up to an all-time high."

Gulf has spent $60,000,000 on the development of super-refining facilities to permit the production of the new fuel.

One of the largest newspaper advertising campaigns in the history of the oil industry is telling the motoring public about Gulf's new super-refined gasoline. A series of four full-page newspaper advertisements will be followed by half pages throughout the fall months. Magazines, TV, radio and outdoor posters will also be employed.

Fifty-Sixth Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

By Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reed

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reed of Galatia RFD 2 celebrated their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary Saturday, Sept. 18, quietly at home. Two daughters, Mrs. Gladys Williams and Mrs. Ruth Patterson, were the only children who could come home for the anniversary and three other children had visited home previously. Miss Fern Reed, who teaches in the Madison, Ill., high school, visited her parents' last week end. James Reed and family had visited earlier because of his teaching duties at Rock Island where he also coaches and trains life guards. Another son, Edward Reed, and family, who live in Fort Smith, Ark., had also visited earlier because of his duties there. He is president of a bank in Fort Smith which is building a new building and his presence was required there.

Miss Ida Reed, Mr. Reed's sister, is the only living person who was an attendant at their marriage ceremony and who lives in Galatia. Mrs. Nelly Armstrong also witnessed the marriage when she was a small girl. Her father, Joe Hawkins, performed the marriage when he was justice of peace and a deacon of the Baptist church of Hartford which was situated north of Harco.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed lived the first three years of their married life in Brushy township, then moved to Galatia township near New Hope church where they have resided 53 years.

Little Furs Team With Fall Fashions

Little furs for the opening days of autumn are in fox, are for both daytime and after-dark wear. Dramatic white fox (left) is two-tiered, is designed with jeweled-button closing to leave arms free. Boa (center) is golden glory, newest of the fox mutations, is over six feet long. Color is actually a golden bronze shot through with silver. It's shown here worn muff and stole fashion but can be draped many ways. Flattering to the shorter figure (right), this two-tiered blue fox capelet is hooked for perfect joining in the front. And it's right for both daytime and evening wear. All three designs are by Reynard of New York.

Civil Defense HQ Slips Out of Capital In Speedy, Massive Move to Michigan

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One of the government's vital agencies has quickly and quietly slipped out of town — to the surprise of many Washington officials.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration has speedily completed a massive move from the capital to new lodgings in the Percy Jones Army Hospital at Battle Creek, Mich.

More than a million pounds of equipment was trucked 600 miles to the new location in two weeks. The General Services Administration did the job for $150,000.

But the nation's nerve center for attack and disaster is presently in a state of mild confusion, for a lot of unpacking still has to be done.

The exodus to Battle Creek would not have been carried out so hastily had not Congress waited until the last minute before appropriating funds for transfer.

But before the official vote was tabulated, elaborate moving plans were being readied. The FCDA departed so suddenly that many a red-faced bureaucrat had to be told the agency was no longer in Washington.

Around 270 employees decided to stick with the FCDA and live at Battle Creek. Settling these families in homes in time for the youngsters to attend the opening of school after Labor Day was a major problem.

An SOS was sent to the Battle Creek Real Estate Board. The area was combed for homes and now most of the strangers from Washington are in suitable living quarters.

On the first day of business at Battle Creek, the FCDA was called on to handle an emergency. New England had just been hit by a devastating hurricane and President Eisenhower asked Val Peterson, FCDA Administrator, to carry out safety measures.

This meant long distance calls to governors of all New England states, assignment of additional personnel to the storm area and preparation of detailed damage reports. The job was done at the cost of some shattered nerves. Secretaries and switchboard operators were new, file cabinets were misplaced and numerous crates still had to be opened.

Decentralization is an important part of the country's civil defense program. Thus FCDA authorities decided to set an example and leave Washington, which is a highly critical target area. The law does not allow new government buildings to be constructed, so the vacated hospital was selected.

Peterson is keeping an office open in Washington at the General Services Administration and 30 members of his staff will remain to keep in touch with developments here.

VAL PETERSON: He set an example of decentralization.

Revival to Begin at Ozark

Services will be held daily beginning at 7:30 p. m. and the revival will continue through Oct. 8. The pastor, Rev. Freddie Neibel, invites everyone to attend.

NEW FCDA HEADQUARTERS are in this vacated Army hospital at Battle Creek, Mich., where a hurricane was the first business.

Grandmother, 82, May Use Inheritance For Small Orchestra

BARRE, Mass. — A drum-playing 82-year-old great-grandmother said today she may form her own small orchestra with part of her quarter million dollar inheritance.

Mrs. Annie Maude Kelley was surprised but not overwhelmed when notified that Dr. William H. Whiting, whom she served as housekeeper for 30 years, had bequeathed her $250,000.

"He always said he would take care of me," said the twinkling-eyed octogenarian, whose mother was a descendant of President Zachary Taylor.

Mrs. Kelley's big joy is music. She took piano lessons at 10 and, even before high school graduation, joined the nation's first all-girl orchestra, called the Marion Osgood Lady Orchestra.

There she learned to play the drums, viola, bells and xylophone. She still beats the skins—for her own enjoyment.

"You know," she said, "I've always wanted an orchestra of my own. Maybe now . . . well, I might get together a little group."

Device Would Warn Sleepy Auto Drivers

DETROIT — Dr. L. E. Briggs, Ford Motor Co. treasurer, predicts that drivers some day may fall asleep at the wheel in safety.

For researchers are experimenting with an electronic device that detects "symptoms of drowsiness on the part of the driver," Briggs said.
